

BHARAT GAURAV AWARD

Presented by

India International Friendship Society

India International Friendship Society was founded as a non-Profit non-Governmental Organization (NGO) on four very strong pillars - friendship, patriotism, commitment and ethical values. The guiding force of the Society is based on the noble philosophy of serving the cause of motherland.

One of the aims and objectives is to honour its member with "Award and Certificate of Excellence" for outstanding leadership in the field, such as education, medical services, engineering, architecture and other exceptional performance of high order and services.

As appreciation and recognition, the Society also confers prestigious awards to Indian and non-Indian nationals who has made significant contributions in country's socio-economical developments and glorified the country by their exquisite work anywhere in the world.

The India International Friendship Society is organizing Global Friendship Day on 7th January 2010 at Indian Habitat Centre, Lodi Road, New Delhi. More than 300 NRIs from the various parts of the world will participate in the conference. The Bharat Gaurav Award will be presented to the people of India & Abroad on the occasion.
